DEADLOCK OVER REBEL DELEGATES NOT YET BROKEN

American and Mexican Diplomats Far Apart in Conference

MEDIATORS FRAMING A REPLY

Will Inform Carranza of Their Attitude, Concerning His Last Note; Constitutionalists Not Well-Informed as to Mission, is the Belief.

By Associated Press.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 2.—Still deadlocked over the question of Constitutionalist representation at the conferences here, the Mexican and American delegates were awaiting more information today about the character and ability of certain persons who had been previously suggested to compose the new provisional government.

The Mexican delegates are reporting to their government the developments with reference to Constitutionalist participation, but have as yet no official knowledge on the subject from the mediator.

The American delegates have not finished their discussion with the mediators about the Constitutionalists and are awaiting more information from Washington in this connection. Indications today were that nothing definite would be resolved on Constitutionalist representation, though the mediators were reported to be framing a reply to the last Carranza note.

A statement from Durango, giving the Constitutionalist view of the mediation conference, was regarded here as likely to delay rather than hurry the negotiations. While no comment was obtainable, those of the conference who did express themselves pointed to the statement as concrete evidence of the misunderstanding that existed in the minds of the Constitutionalists as to the character of the negotiations here.

AMMUNITION FOR REBELS. IS HELD UP IN NEW YORK.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Five hundred tons of ammunition ordered by the Mexican Constitutionalists which arrived in New York today from Bridgeport, Conn., will not be allowed to leave this port. Although it was stated at the customs house that no instructions had been received from Washington, officials declared it was probable any vessel bearing arms or ammunition consigned to either of the Mexican factions would be refused clearance papers.

The ammunition was brought here on the Bridgeport line steamer Naugatuck and it was understood in shipping circles the lot would be lighted to the Ward liner Antilla, which is due late today for Tampico.

Officials of the Ward line refused to say whether the shipments had been offered for the Antilla. Agents for the company which manufactured the ammunition admitted that it had arrived here.

REFUGEES RETURNING TO THE TAMPICO OIL FIELDS.

By Associated Press.

TAMPICO via Brownsville, Tex., June 2. The United States transport Hancock today arrived with 270 refugees who were transferred outside the port to the collier Lebanon and then landed in this city.

Most of them were men interested in the oil industry and seeking to resume their operations. The oil operators generally are reluctant to recommence their activities on account of the difficulties surrounding the general situation in Mexico, especially during the conference of the mediators at Niagara Falls.

SMALLPOX OUTBREAK IN CONSTITUTIONALIST CAMP.

By Associated Press.

ON BOARD U. S. S. CALIFORNIA, Mazatlan, Mex., June 1, via San Diego, Cal., June 2.—Smallpox has broken out at Culiacan, the capital of Sinaloa, according to advices received today by the commanding officer of the American fleet.

The mortality in the Constitutionalist garrison is said to be heavy.

GERMANY HAS TAKEN NO ACTION OVER BIG FINES.

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Germany, June 2.—No instructions as to the fines imposed on the German steamers Ypiranga and Bavaria for landing at Puerto Mexico cargoes of arms and ammunition for Provisional President Huerta have been given by the German foreign office to the German ambassador to the United States.

This official statement was made at the government offices today but it was added that the cases are under investigation for the purpose of ascertaining exactly what occurred. They will later be the subject of negotiations with Washington.

An official denial was given to a published report that Germany had protested against the penalization of the vessels.

Cousins Convicted.

HAVANA, June 2. It was unofficially reported today that Ernesto Asbury, former governor of Havana province, and Representative Eugenio Arias had been found guilty of the assassination in July, 1913, of General Armando Riva, chief of the national police.

MINERS ON STRIKE MAY ABANDON THE CHECKOFF

Prefer Higher Wage Scale to Having Companies Collect Union Dues.

By Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 2.—Reports from many coal mines today indicated there had been no disorder and union leaders expressed the belief there would be none unless the operators brought strikebreakers into the district. No new agreements between coal companies and their men were reported. Many of the mines where a settlement was reached yesterday were at work.

Some operators, it is said, signed the Kanawha wage agreement, which provides for a higher mining rate than that paid on Paint and Cabin creeks. This, it is declared, has prompted some of the union miners who are still out to take the position that they would rather have the higher rate of wages than the checkoff, the original point of issue.

OHIO WAGE CONFERENCE IS LATE GETTING STARTED.

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., June 2.—Ohio coal operators failed to meet in joint conference with delegates of striking miners in an effort to reach a satisfactory settlement, but it was expected the conference would begin this afternoon.

Operators met separately in executive session to discuss what terms they will offer the miners. The miners listened to addresses by John P. White, international president; William Green, international secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, and John Moore, president of District No. 6.

President White pledged the support of the national organization to Ohio miners in settling the present wage difficulty.

BIG FUNERAL FOR SAILORS

All Quebec Will Homage to Nine of Ship's Crew.

By Associated Press.

QUEBEC, June 2.—The first public funeral of victims of the collision between the steamer Empress of Ireland and the collier Storstad is to be held Wednesday when the bodies of nine of the crew will be buried.

Mayor Drolin, aided by Canadian Pacific officials and prominent men in the town, is arranging for the ceremony which will be an imposing one. There is to be a public procession headed by the Royal Canadian garrison artillery band and detachments from the warship Essex and the local military forces will be in line. The schools are to be closed and for a time business will be suspended.

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 2.—The list of probable dead from this little village on the Empress of Ireland was reduced from eight to four today when it was learned that the four children of Alvin Carlson, who were going with her to Norway, had been taken off the steamship before sailing while their mother went on and lost her life.

At the last moment Mrs. Carlson deferred to the wishes of her husband, who had opposed the children going to Norway. On receipt of notice that the children had not sailed, Mr. Carlson today left for Quebec to reclaim them and to search for the body of his wife.

SEEK HARVEST HANDS

83,000 Men in Demand by Three Western States.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma wheat raisers need at least 82,000 more men to help in harvesting their crops and the commissioners of labor of those states have asked Secretary of Labor Wilson to have his department co-operate with them in obtaining the necessary workers.

The men will be wanted by June 15 and the pay, it is stated, will range from $2 to $3.50 a day. The period of employment will be from three to five or six months.

Various local organizations in the three states will arrange for distributing the men among the farmers.

TIMBER IN DANGER.

Millions of Feet May be Lost if Eruptions Continue.

By Associated Press.

REDDING, Cal., June 2.—Thus far no damage has been reported as a result of the eruption of Mount Lassen in Shasta county. Further activity of the old volcano, forest rangers said today, would endanger millions of feet of timber in the forest to the east and northwest.

On the north side there is no danger of a conflagration as the slope is covered for two miles from the summit with lava and there is little vegetation.

Twelve automobile parties started from Redding to try to reach the crater.

HECKLE LLOYD-GEORGE.

Suffragets Riot in Wales, and Some are Arrested.

By Associated Press.

CRICCIETH, Wales, June 2.—Suffragets today visited in force the constituency of David Lloyd-George while the chancellor of the exchequer was addressing an open-air meeting.

The women first tried to create a panic among the audience but were summarily ejected. They then paraded the main streets, shattering the windows with hammers in many instances. Eventually the police arrested half a dozen of them.

CLASS DAY PROGRAM IS FULL OF FUN; BIG AUDIENCE DELIGHTED

THE CLASS PLAY TONIGHT

Colonial Theatre is Filled to Capacity as the Graduates Present an Unusual Program; "Man From Mexico" Promises to Excel Last Year's Play.

The annual class day exercises of the high school seniors, held last evening at the Colonial, pleased a large and appreciative audience. The program was well rendered. Every seat of the large theatre was occupied and the audience showed its recognition of the capable work of the students by generous applause.

The affair was in three parts, the first scene being descriptive of a picnic held by the seniors. The stage settings representing a scene in the woods and the bevy of young girl graduates and young men nattily attired in picnic clothes, presented a very attractive scene. Miss Grace Dunham, Miss Bertha Hooper, Miss Blanche Stafford and Miss Elsie Stafford were in the midst of preparing a picnic luncheon. In the meantime Miss Ethel Springer and Miss Anita Turner made their appearance, and handed out gentle knocks on the juniors. Miss Ruth Newberg and Miss Ruth Lohr delivered the senior knocks Harriet Hord, as a Gypsy fortune teller, was exceptionally clever, as was Raymond Ward, a vender. The buyers were Frank Showman, James Shea and Elizabeth Miller. The picnic scene came to a close with a toast by Regis McGann.

The second part showed Miss Ruth Swarner, Miss Inez Tremberth, Miss Fannie Wilson, Miss Nelle Jeffries and Miss Christine Minnis studying for their examinations, the occasion not being a very joyous one for the students. Finally, becoming tired of study, they fell asleep and a number of souls representing chemistry, geometry, physics and other studies appear.

The third part represented a meeting of the faculty, and was especially interesting, each member of the faculty being ably mimicked. During the meeting students charged with truancy were brought before Scott Lysinger, representing Principal Smith, and the janitor appears several times during the meeting, anxiously awaiting its adjournment. The class medley, of which Howard Reppert was composer, closed the program. Miss Jessamine Dellaven was originator of the class day program and Miss Frances Freed and Miss Jean Armstrong were her assistants.

Standing room, it is predicted, will be at a premium this evening at the annual class play of the seniors, "The Man From Mexico," to be presented this evening at the Colonial Theatre. The affair promises to be one of the best attractions of the commencement festivities. The play is in three acts and abounds in humor. Benjamin Fitzhew, thinking that his wife is going to visit her mother, plans a lark with Mr. Majors. Mrs. Fitzhew, however, overhears the conversation and follows them to the Hotel Cleopatra. Just when she arrives all the guests are put under arrest, she with the others, but Fitzhew and Majors, having just left the hotel, escape. Through the influence of Mr. Farrar, Mrs. Fitzhew is allowed to go home.

As Fitzhew and Majors go home the same night, the former gets into a fight with a man by the name of Schmidt who has him sent to jail for 30 days. To keep his family from knowing of his sad plight he says he is going to take a trip to Mexico. In jail he suffers many trials and tribulations but at last his 30 days expires and he returns home. He has quite a time in making explanations. He wriggles out of every difficult until finally complications come too fast. He then explains where he has been, stating that he went to jail to save his wife. Following forgiveness on the part of both domestic tranquility is established. The cast of characters is as follows

Sally Gralce, sister of Mrs. Benjamin Fitzhew.....Elizabeth Oemas
Nettie Majors, a friend of the Fitzhews .....Mary McConnell
Richard Daunton, Sally's fiance.. .....Frank McCairns

19 Sudden Deaths.

The report of Coroner H. J. Bell for the month of May shows 19 sudden deaths during the month.

ARNOLD CITY MAN ADMITS BOOTLEGGING; SENTENCED

John Smith, Foreigner, Fined $500 and Goes to Jail for a Year; Other Cases.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, June 2.—Ten women and children testified in court this morning they had purchased whiskey and beer from John Smith, a foreigner of Arnold City. The information was made against Smith by John S. Lindley. The boys who testified ranged from 10 years up. A number of men also testified against the defendant. After all the testimony was in, Attorney John Duggan, Jr., who represented the defendant, stated that Smith would withdraw his plea of not guilty and enter a plea of guilty. He was immediately sentenced to pay the costs a fine of $500 and spend one year in jail. In case the fine and costs are paid at the end of three months his sentence may be suspended.

A verdict of guilty was rendered this morning in the case of Joe Sami, charged by Jose Rose with assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery, unlawful cutting with intent to kill and murder, and carrying concealed weapons. Mrs. Joe Rose, the prosecutor's wife, claimed that she had been keeping a boarding house at York Run and that the defendant had been boarding at her place before he committed the offenses. She stated he had made an attempt to enter her home the morning of the cutting and had been unsuccessful and that later when she saw him in the kitchen shaving, he cut her several times across the forehead with a razor. Following the verdict Sami immediately applied for a new trial.

Tony Crombers is on trial for carrying concealed weapons. Following his arrest in Uniontown a revolver was found on him. He was convicted, but his sanity is questioned.

In the small court room two foreigners, Vincent Angelo and Vancine Euinchanca, are on trial on a charge of assault and battery and aggrevated assault and battery. Jack McCluckie is the prosecutor. The trial is the result of a battle which took place at the bottom of the mines at Republic, McCluckie suffering several painful injuries.

An interesting case, and one in which several residents of Vanderbilt were involved by the testimony, was opened before Judge Van Swearingen this afternoon when Kate Bush went on trial for keeping a disorderly house. The case is expected to last for considerable time. There was an early clash when Attorney R. P. Kennedy, representing the defendant, became involved in an argument with W. D. Egan, one of the men who raided the Bush place. The court suggested that they refrain from casting up old scores.

BANKERS AT ODDS

Cleveland Financiers are Jockeying to Control Federal Reserve Board.

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, June 2.—The 120 bankers assembled at Chamber of Commerce library today to nominate directors to the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland were unable to agree upon a method of election after a discussion in which bankers from West Virginia, Kentucky and Pennsylvania refused to accede to methods suggested by Ohio bankers.

Colonel J. J. Sullivan of Cleveland stirred up the ire of the visiting bankers when he presented a set of rules he had drawn up and asked their adoption. M. A. Kendall of the Farmers Deposit Bank of Pittsburg, immediately secured the floor and suggested that the bankers of Classes 1, 2 and 3 meet together and elect six directors to be chosen by the banks, all at once.

Cincinnati bankers fell in with this suggestion but Clevelanders objected, seeing in the movement an attempt to put over the Pittsburg and Cincinnati candidates for the directorate.

LAW FAVORS LABOR

"Bill of Rights" is Designation of Proposed Legislation.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Close restrictions on the use of injunctions in labor disputes was a feature of the section of the Clayton anti-trust bill reached today in the House. It also provides that no such injunction shall prohibit strikes, peaceful picketing, peaceful pursuading of persons to work or not to work, primary boycotts, the payment of strike benefits or the right of peaceful assemblage.

An amendment proposed by the judiciary committee and agreed upon by representatives of organized labor and administration leaders proposed, "nor shall any acts specified in this paragraph be construed or be held to be unlawful."

With this amendment, representatives of Texas declared that the provision became the "bill of rights of American organized labor."

SCHOOL BOARD'S METHODS AROUSE SOME CRITICISM

Superintendent Ashe Deplores Growing Habit of Procrastination.

ANOTHER MEMBER IS WROTHY

Angered Over President's Attitude Towards Salary of Newly Elected Teacher, He Declares That There is Too Much Favoritism Displayed.

School board held a brief meeting last evening, but was in session long enough to bring forth criticism from within and without. Superintendent S. P. Ashe mildly remonstrated with President F. E. Younkin when the latter refused to consider the matter of a teacher's salary before the coming meeting Wednesday night.

"Too many things coming before this board have to go over," Mr. Ashe remarked.

His objections were overruled and the meeting adjourned without taking any action. There was to have been no business to transact, but Superintendent Ashe wished the salary of Miss Grace Wilson, a newly elected teacher, fixed. Miss Wilson, highly recommended as a primary teacher, was given a voluntary increase of from $60 to $70 by the Clarksburg school board, where she has been employed for six years.

Miss Wilson, who must decide the matter with the Clarksburg board today, asked that she be given $65 a month here. Superintendent Ashe had contemplated paying her $60, but asked the board for its opinion.

President Younkin was undecided about the matter and suggested waiting until Wednesday, although a quorum was on hand. It was suggested that the four agree among themselves to support the $65 proposition Wednesday night, but that did not meet with general approval.

Mr. Younkin suggested letting the matter drop until Wednesday.

"But she wants to know tomorrow," said Superintendent Ashe.

Directors Davidson and Long were clearly in favor of voting the $65 salary, but Younkin and Hetzel declined to commit themselves.

"That's right, let the matter drop. It doesn't matter anything with this board whether the teacher is qualified. Primary teachers grow on trees. We all know that," was Director Davidson's rather sarcastic remark. "Of course, if she is worth $70 to Clarksburg she is worth $65 here."

"I'll entertain a motion to adjourn until Wednesday night," remarked President Younkin, and it was carried.

"What shall I tell Miss Wilson?" inquired Superintendent Ashe.

"She can take a chance until Wednesday I guess," Younkin replied.

Earlier in the session Superintendent Ashe told of the difficulty encountered in obtaining primary teachers who are qualified for the position and stated that he believed Miss Wilson would fill the position splendidly.

After the meeting adourned one director was particularly indignant over the way matters had gone.

"I don't intend to stand for this salary business any longer," he declared. "This board simply won't spend an extra dollar to land a good teacher, but some of the members never overlook an opportunity of taking care of favorites. Merit doesn't count any more. The good salaries are going to teachers with a pull, regardless of their qualifications."

It is understood that the year's salary list has been agreed upon, although it has not been formally ratified by the board. The list was decided upon at a secret caucus held recently. Last year the board was successful in preventing the list from being made public. Prior to that time the teachers were paid on an established sliding scale based on experience and qualification. Last year a departure was made and salaries made to fit the individual. Judging from the comment of the director who spoke his mind last night, the readjustment was not entirely satisfactory.

CHEATED THE BARBER.

Drunken Man is Arrested for Refusing to Pay for a Hair Cut.

Henry Anson, who gave no address, went into a Water street barber shop yesterday afternoon and had his hair cut. After the job was completed, he confessed to the barber that he had no money. The police were called and Anson faced Mayor Marietta in police court this morning. He finally raised sufficient money to pay for the tonsorial work performed on his pate and was discharged by the mayor.

Joe Undrusko, arrested at the Baltimore & Ohio station for disorderly conduct, was sent to the county home when he admitted that he is without funds and unable to work.

FIREMAN MILLER DIES.

Toll of Death in Cooks Mills Accident is Six.

By Associated Press.

CUMBERLAND, June 2.—Grant Miller, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad fireman injured when an engine was wrecked at Cooks Mills, Pa., last Sunday, died in the hospital here today.

Miller is the sixth member of the crew to die as a result of the accident.

AUTOMOBILE OVERTURNS ON HILL; FOUR THROWN OUT

Scottdale Men Have a Narrow Escape From Serious Injury on Limestone Hill.

Four young men from Scottdale were thrown out of an automobile on Limestone Hill about 2 o'clock this morning when the car struck a telephone pole near the intersection with Veech street. An axle of the car was torn off and other damage done to it.

The young men had the top over the car and were trapped. That they were not seriously hurt is considered rather remarkable. All of them escaped with slight bruises.

It is said the car was driven by Joseph Jones. Others in the automobile, acording to reports from Scottdale, were David Flanigan, Austin Ringler and Jesse Kepner.

After righting the car the party returned to Scottdale, leaving the machine behind. The sight of the wrecked automobile caused considerable speculation on the West Side today.

CONFLICT AVERTED

Gaster Yields and Buttermore's Band Band Will Play June 12.

The two bands here love one another so. Leaders James W. Buttermore and John E. Gaster both decided upon Friday, June 12 as the time for the season's first concert. Buttermore charged that Gaster picked that night after he learned that the Tenth Regiment Band planned to give the concert at the same time.

Gaster cancelled his claim to June 12, and said the first concert of the Connellsville Military Band would be given on June 19. This order was also revoked, and the date of the military band's opening is now shrouded in mystery.

Leader Buttermore of the regimental band was on the warpath when he heard of the threatened conflict.

"You tell the people the Tenth Regiment band will give a concert at the bandstand on the night of June 12," he told a reporter for The Courier, when informed that Gaster has intended playing the same night.

Buttermore wins.

BALL ROW SETTLED

Mack Pays $101 to Uniontown Players; Locals Still Here.

The curtain has been rung down on the baseball season. Yesterday at Uniontown the charges against Manager James B Mack of the Cokers and H. S Johns, his assistant, were withdrawn. Mack paid over $101 of the gate receipts which disappeared on Memorial Day and it was immediately divided among the Uniontown players. Mack says the Uniontown players settled the costs of prosecution.

Up to noon the local players have not been paid off by Mack, but they are apparently not worrying. Mack reiterated his declaration that he intends to quit the town square, and the Coker champs are apparently willing to take his word for it.

Andy Getsic, the lelsenring boy arrested during Sunday's riot at Clarksburg, returned to town last night. The Clarksburg manager paid his fine. All of the Clarksburg players were paid off yesterday and got out of the state, fearing arrest as a result of Sunday's disturbance. The grand jury was to have acted today.

WANTS SWIMMING PLACE

Secretary Baer Urges That Kids be Given a Chance to Splash.

Secretary E. T. Baer of the Y. M. C. A expressed gratification today that city council is favorably disposed towards his suggestion to set aside certain hours each day for swimming along the river. Mr. Baer's letter to council also suggests the erection of inexpensive dressing rooms at the spot selected for a bathing pool. It will likely be adopted.

Mr. Baer said that Physical Director Everhart will take charge of the boys and act in the combined capacity of lifeguard and instructor.

"It will be a relief to some mothers to know if their boys go swimming they will be watched over by someone," Mr. Baer said today. "The plan also may mean the saving of several lives during the summer."

No pool has yet been selected but it will likely be on the West Side, some distance above the Yough bridge.

TEACHERS ELECTED.

Staff Selected by the Dunbar Borough School Board.

The Dunbar borough school board held an election of teachers last evening when the staff for the next term was selected. Principal A. C. Gwynne was re-elected. It was announced that the annual school picnic to Shady Grove will be held on Thursday, cars leaving at 9 A. M.

The teachers elected by the board were as follows: No. 1, Alice McElhaney and Lulu Carroll; No. 2, Elizabeth Ferren; No. 3, Agnes Neiman; No. 4, Etta Baker, No. 5, Pearl Bleicher No. 6, Lulu Shaw.

BRAKEMAN HURT.

Arm Badly Wrenched When Car is Derailed.

Walter Weaver of Youngwood, a Pennsylvania railroad brakeman, had his right arm severely wrenched yesterday when a car on which he was riding left the rails at the Connellsville station.

Weaver was on the top of the car putting on the brakes and when the air brakes kicked, his arm was caught in the wheel and turned around with it.

COUNCIL SETS THE TAX LEVY AT 15.5 MILLS; IT WAS 13

Increase is in Line With Financial Program Previously Outlined.

LOWER NEXT YEAR, IS PLEDGE

Improvement of Unpaved Approaches to the City First Work to be Done and Ordinances are to be Drawn; Pavements Must Be Laid Promptly.

The city tax from April 1 to December 31, less than a year, will be 15.5 mills, an increase of 2.5 mills over the levy which prevailed in 1913. This action was taken by city council last night upon the recommendation of Superintendent John L. Gans of the department of accounts and finance.

With the revised valuations as the basis for taxation next year, Councilman Gans stated last night that the millage next year would be materially reduced, and further stated that if the present system of financing is carried out by future administrations, at the end of five years the levy will be on a 10-mill basis, and should remain there.

Concerning the tax levy, Councilman Gans said:

"We have sought to make the tax levy as low as possible and rigid economy in the matter of expenditures must be observed by the heads of every department. It is our duty to make the burden on the taxpayers as light as possible, yet at the same time take care of the many improvements that are demanded."

The 15.5 mills will be apportioned as follows: General fund, 10 mills; sinking fund, 4.2 mills; improvement fund, 1.3 mills. The improvement fund is to be used in connection with the $44,000 which will be available from the bond issue. This is expected to be a permanent fund, as money expended on improving streets will be returned as payments are made by property owners. The 1.3 mills is expected to be sufficient to cover the losses that will naturally occur.

The increase of 2.5 mills is greater than has been made by a town council for some years, but this is explained by the fact that at no time in recent years has a borough council levied sufficient money to cover more than the actual running expenses of the city, and other extraordinary expenditures were covered by certificates of indebtedness. On the other hand, the 2.5-mill increase is mild in comparison with the 4-mill increase levied by the school board some years ago to construct the addition to the old high school building. The city levy this year is still one-half a mill lower than the school board's was at that time. It is now only half a mill higher than the present school levy.

Little other business was transacted at the meeting. Solicitor Hizbee submitted his report on the water question, but it was decided that council would go over the matter informally before taking any action or discussing it in regular meeting.

Improvement work will be started in the near future. Council indicated that the first streets to be improved will be the unpaved approaches to the city. The solicitor was directed to prepare ordinances for the paving of West Main street from the end of the present paving to the city line; North Pittsburg street, from the end of the present paving to Eighth street, and South Pittsburg street from the end of present paving to city line. It is probable that these streets will be paved 24 feet wide, although this has not yet been determined.

City Engineer Hirst was directed to inquire into the cost of a sewer to reach residents along the extreme end of South Pittsburg street, and those residing near the city line on Arch street. Mr. Hirst estimated the cost of the Pittsburg street sewer at $1,800 and was directed to see what right of way arrangements could be made with Mrs. Jean H. Davidson.

Two new ordinances were introduced. One provides that prior to the improvement of a street, all water, gas and other pipes and connections must be made. If the public service corporations and private citizens fail to comply with the notice, the city will do the work. The other ordinance authorizes the issue of the $100,000 bonds and is one of the formalities to be gone into.

A suggestion from Secretary E. T. Baer of the Y. M. C. A. that council designate certain hours and a spot along the river for bathing and stating that the Y. M. C. A. would supply a lifeguard and instructor in the person of Physical Director Everhart, was read after the meeting adjourned and the matter referred to Councilmen Duggan and Wright. The suggestion met with unanimous approval.

Mayor Marietta promised to investigate the complaint of James B. Millard concerning a stable in the rear of South Arch street. The mayor has authority to act under the penal ordinance.

The estate of Charles Cunningham and Ney Kilpatrick were served with notices to lay sidewalks on Madison street. Other sidewalk notices are to be sent out in the near future.

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, June 2.—Organizations of women in New Orleans plan to boycott merchants who support a measure now before the Legislature to legislate betting on horse racing in Louisiana. Two mass meetings have already been held.

The bill provides that New Orleans shall decide the subject for itself at a local option election. Backed by 16,000 signatures to a petition, the bill was introduced in the lower house of the General Assembly and sent to the city affairs committee from which a report is expected tomorrow.

Besides the referendum feature, the bill provides that betting be permitted under the parimutuel system as that racing be governed by a commission much the same as in Kentucky.

The steamship company assumes that a satisfactory settlement soon will be reached as it regards the fines purely a custom house question devoid of political significance.

DEMOCRATIC COWARDICE.

The Democratic House of Representatives has yielded to the demand of union labor bosses and inserted a remarkable clause in the Democratic Anti-Trust bill, the intent of which is to exempt labor trusts from the operation of the law.

The original draft simply enacted that fraternal, labor, agricultural or horticultural organizations, instituted for the purpose of mutual help and not conducted for a profit, shall not, by any construction of the Anti-Trust law be forbidden from "carrying out their legitimate objects." This did not go far enough to suit Gompers, and as a result these words were added: "Nor shall such organizations, orders or associations, or the members thereof, be held or construed to be illegal combinations in restraint of trade."

The Sherman law prohibits combinations in restraint of trade. This law has no exceptions. It sets up no privileged classes. Every interest must toe the same mark. At the time of its passage and for some time subsequently the Sherman law was regarded as something of a legislative jest. Attorney General Philander C. Knox woke it up when he assumed the duties of his office. It has since been found to be wonderfully efficient.

In this age of reform the Democratic politicians now in power realize that they must make a showing at Washington as moral uplifters and progressives. They have revised the Tariff, reformed the banking laws, increased the income tax, they now propose to regulate the corporations with the same impetuous vigor with which they have been probing them ever since they took charge of the steering wheel of the ship of state; and while they are thus shaking the corporations as a terrier shakes a rat, Democrats and others who voted themselves a change in politics are wondering what's the matter with business.

The landing down of the Democratic Anti-Trust bill with illegal exemptions will probably be the death of it. If the President does not veto it the courts will eventually kill it. There can be no exception to the principle of the Sherman law. If combinations in restraint of trade are bad on the part of one interest, they cannot be harmless on the parts of another.

The Sherman law has worked very well so far. If Congress will abandon the idea of improving it by exempting from its operations labor unions [illegible] agricultural associations in order to advance the political interests of the Democratic party, and adjourn, business may get its breath and hard times once more and industry and prosperity may come again.

SCHOOL BOARD MYSTERY.

The school board had a brief and mysterious session last night which came to a close after some peculiar parliamentary procedure without any action on any subject whatsoever and with the consideration of but one proposition of minor importance. It might be added that this proposition was not, in the opinion of some of the directors present, considered wisely.

Under the circumstances the application should have been accepted or rejected. The action of the presiding officer in declaring that the matter would be laid over until the next meeting has the Czarism of Reed and the absolutism of Cannon faded from a lurid red to a pale pink. Perhaps if some of the members had awakened to the fact that all power is inherent in the body and not in the presiding officer the question might have been determined regardless of the personal wishes of President Younkin.

The Connellsville school board will please its constituents better and probably do most of its membership more justice by exhibiting less mystery and developing more efficiency in the transaction of public business.

Traffic regulation is one of the penalties Connellsville pays for greatness. People who grumble about it should remember that Uniontown, which has not yet attained to the dignity of a city, prohibits its citizens from crossing the streets save at the corners. The late Morgan R. Wise of Greene county, who electioneered on both sides of Uniontown's streets coming or going when he ran for Congress, which he did with great frequency and some success, would no doubt be much puzzled to classify among Democratic principles this specimen of Safety First a la Warman.

The summer excursion is here. The common drinking cup having been banished, it is suggested that everybody carry his own thermos bottle.

If West Virginia cokes are worth $2 and better per ton at the ovens, Connellsville coke is worth at least that figure. Perhaps there would be less doubt as to the value of Connellsville coke if its producers stood closer together and held their mutual interest better in hand. In this matter they might get some valuable suggestions from their West Virginia rivals.

The spotting charge still remains a mere threat but there is a disposition on the part of coke operators to join with Shakespeare in saying, "Out, damned spot!"

The Shamrock coke plant seems to be in chancery.

In Fayette county township road improvement is making an effort to keep pace with town street paving, but the latter is still several blocks ahead.

Mayor Marietta will have accomplished two great reforms when he has weeded out the beggars and corner loafers of the city.

The Chicago Tribune is telling the Pennsylvania voters to defeat the Republican ticket. The Tribune is another McCormick family organ.

The country is tired of the Panama canal toll debate, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. Between ourselves, the country is sick of Congress.

The West Virginia mining strike is off again.

C. N. Stark & Bro., contractors, have begun the construction of 200 new ovens at the United coke plant.

Dr. G. W. Newcomer lays the cornerstone for his new building. He deposits copies of The Courier, the Uniontown Standard and the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette, his photograph, the names of the contractor and employes and last, but not least, a box of pills, in the copper box placed within the stone.

C. S. Palmer & Sons begin work on the new bridge over Connell run.

George P. Howell and Thomas R. Wakefield are admitted to practice law before the Fayette county bar.

Friday, June 1, 1894.

The Courier's coke trade review for the week ending May 26 shows that of the 17,517 ovens in the region, 2,917 are in operation and 14,576 are idle. The estimated production for the week is 30,333 tons. This is an increase of approximately 14,000 tons over the previous week. Idle ovens are being fired.

The shipments for the week aggregate 970 cars, consigned as follows: To Pittsburg and river tipples, 500 cars; to points west of Pittsburg, 440 cars; to points east of Connellsville, 30 cars; a net increase of 400 cars compared with the previous week.

Governor Pattison issues a proclamation declaring that unless the striking coke workers cease marching and rioting, the National Guard will be called out to preserve order.

W. S. Hood is elected a member of council to succeed Joseph H. Paddock, chief engineer of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, who was killed at Davidson by rioting coke workers.

Reports for the school year are made by Principal Cox showing that Miss Harriet Stouffer holds the attendance record of not having missed a day for eight years. The highest marks in the rooms out of high school were made as follows: No. 2, Mattie Crossland, No. 3 Anna Purkey, No. 4, George Kilpatrick; No. 5, Katie Storey; No. 6, Beulah Francis, and Carl Pritchard; No. 7, Lucretia McGarr; No. 8, Walter Goldsmith; No. 9, Pearl Wright; No. 10, May Nickle.

Friday, June 5, 1904.

The Courier's coke trade review reports production for the week ending May 28 at 263,012 tons. Of the 28,700 ovens in the two regions 23,291 are operating and 5,409 are idle.

Shipments for the week aggregate 11,281 cars, distributed as follows: To Pittsburg, 4,399 cars; to points west of Pittsburg, 5,721 cars; to points east of Connellsville, 1,221 cars. This is a decrease of 500 cars compared with the week previous.

Indications point to a slump in the coke trade during the summer and both production and shipments are expected to drop.

Mrs. George B. Brown, president of the local Woman's Christian Temperance Union, makes informations against storekeepers for Sunday selling.

The Baltimore & Ohio shop employes are affected by an order curtailing expenses. A number of the men have been laid off because of a dull summer business.

The White Rock Distilling Company buys the Gray property at the corner of Fairview avenue and Arch street and will build a new plant there. The present plant in Connellsville township is to be dismantled.

The June weddings begin early, three of them being solemnized on the first day of the month. At a double wedding, Miss Edna Pearl Cunningham and Charles Gould Hyatt, and Miss Leona Pricilla Crowley and Harry Ellsworth Schenck are married. Mrs. Elizabeth Gallagher and James W. Howard are married the same day.

Squire James Schard, an old resident of Connellsville, dies in Pittsburg.

ECUADOR.

By GEORGE FITCH,

Author of "At Go od Old Siwash."

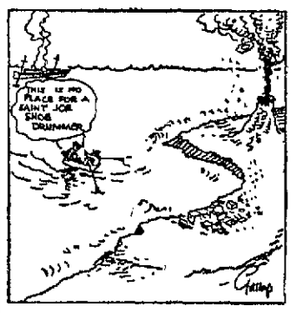

Ecuador is a modest little South American Republic, shaped a good deal like a piece of New England pie, which has been doing business in a quiet way for about 85 years, and which only breaks into the headlines once a decade.

Few countries have been neglected by the press agent so thoroughly as Ecuador. A revolution in Ecuador isn't as important to the telegraph editor as a ward caucus in Chicago, containing the tallest volcano in existence, not even excepting Senator Tillman, and having a history which stretches back to the days when Great Britain had thirteen kings and only two bath tubs, it is supposed by many thousands of people to be a popular brand of cigars and only school boys and diplomats can locate it in the proper hemisphere.

Ecuador lies in and among Colombia and Peru. It is impossible to tell just where it lies because Colombia and Peru are quarreling over half of its territory. Some day they will come to terms and then Ecuador will be a country of 120,000 square and precipitous miles, instead of 240,000 square miles as it is now. Ecuador believes in universal peace and does not appropriate anything for its navy, which makes it impossible to prove that it owns any territory which any other nation wants. Years ago when the United States had as poor a navy as Ecuador, England was always very doubtful about our boundary lines. This is why this country stops abruptly at the north end of North Dakota instead of at the north end of the Canadian wheat fields where the maroon flag once waved.

Ecuador is the pleasantest strip of equator in existence. This is because most of the country lies a mile or two above sea level in the Andes. It has a wonderfully healthful climate between revolutions, but transportation facilities are bad. One has to travel down the west coast of South America on a tramp steamer and go to shore in a small boat which performs motions which have not yet been invented even in Coney Island.

There are 1,500,000 people in Ecuador, most of them Indians, and there are 70,000 school children. Chimborazo, the famous mountain, is a resident of the country, and so are Cotopaxi and a thousand other peaks which make Pike's Peak look like an old-fashioned hotel in the skyscraper district.

Quito, the capital of Ecuador, is over 1,000 years old and was a capital of the Incas before the Spaniards came in 1534. From that time until 1830 Ecuador was a presidency, having 36 presidents. However, they were Spanish presidents and resembled the modern article as little as Huerta does Wilson. Since 1830, Ecuador has had the modern style of president and the average tenure of life has greatly increased.

The chief products of Ecuador are cattle, sugar cane, cocoa and constitutions. It has had eleven constitutions in eighty-five years and is always in the market for improvements.

Working for Your Pocketbook.

It is the duty of all of us to use every fair means to protect our own pocketbook.

That is thrift in its best sense.

When we spend money we should be sure that we are getting something of substantial value for it.

We should buy with knowledge.

The advertising in this newspaper assists you to this knowledge—it plays an important part in your well being.

It is the news of the market place; and by reading and weighing it you are equipped to buy to the best advantage.

Women long ago learned the value of advertising, because they have the large part of the family income to spend and must make the dollars go as far as possible.

They realize that it pays to know—and to buy—when and where the opportunity is best for them. And they realize, too, that they can gain this knowledge from the advertising columns of good newspapers like THE COURIER.

WHAT THIN FOLKS SHOULD DO TO GAIN WEIGHT

Physician's Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness weak nerves and feeble stomachs who having tried advertised flesh-makers food fads physical culture stunts and rub-on creams resign themselves to life-long thinness and think nothing will put them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recent discovered reconstructive tonic makes fat grow after the thinness and is also unrivalled for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol six strength giving fat producing elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this peerless preparation which is endorsed by eminent physicians and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless inexpensive and efficient.

A month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying highly concentrated fats to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten and the additional fats that thin people need are provided. Leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer it should not be used by fleshy people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.—Adv

PUT SULPHUR ON AN ITCHING SKIN AND END ECZEMA

Says This Old-Time Eczema Remedy is Applied Like Cold Cream.

Any irritation or breaking out on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He states that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the Eczema right up leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream.—Adv.

"Muy malo!" frowned the Yaqui, glancing once more at the woman behind. "Muchos revoltosos!"

"Where?" asked Bud.

"Everywhere!" replied Amigo with a comprehensive wave of the hand. "But no matter," he added simply. "I will go with you. Who are those horsemen behind?"

"Rurales!" responded Hooker, and the Yaqui's black eyes dilated.

"Yes," nodded Bud as he read the swift question in their glance. "He is there, too—Del Rey!"

"Que bueno!" exclaimed the Indian, fixing his eagle glance upon the riders. He showed his white teeth in a smile. In an instant he saw his opportunity, he saw his enemy riding into a trap, and turned his face to the pass.

What Amigo had waited for, the opportunity he had watched for, was at hand. Del Rey should pay the price of that scar the Yaqui carried. Not again would the bullet go astray, nor his people should have one less man to fight after that day. The hatred of generations lay behind the thoughts of the Indian. He cared nothing for the grievance of the girl, and he would not kill Del Rey for that, but for his own reasons.

Savy Mauser Spoke Out—One Shot!

"Come!" he said, laying hold of a latigo strap, and as Hooker loped on up the steady incline he ran along at his stirrup. In his right hand he still carried the heavy Mauser, but his sandaled feet bore him forward with tireless strides and only the heaving of his mighty chest told the story of the pace.

"Let me take your gun," suggested Hooker, as they set off on their race, but Amigo in his warrior's pride only shook his head and motioned him on and on. So at last they gained the rugged summit, where the granite ribs of the mountain crop up through the sands of the wash and the valley slopes away to the north. To the south was Del Rey, still riding after them, but Amigo beckoned Bud beyond the roof and looked out to the north.

"Revoltosos!" he exclaimed, pointing a sun-blackened hand at a distant ridge. "Revoltosos!" he said again, waving his hand to the east. "Here," waving toward the west, "no!"

"Do you know that country?" inquired Hooker, nodding at the great plain with its chains of parallel Sierras, but the Indian shook his head.

"No," he said: "but the boat way is straight for that pass."

He pointed at a distant wedge cut down between the blue of two ridges, and scanned the eastern hills intently.

"Men!" he cried, suddenly indicating the sky-line of the topmost ridge. "I think they are revoltosos," he added gravely. "They will soon cross your trail."

"No difference," answered Bud with a smile. "I am not afraid—not with you here, Amigo."

"No, but the woman!" suggested Amigo, who read no jest in his words. "It is better that you should ride on—and leave me here."

He smiled encouragingly, but a wild light was creeping into his eyes and Hooker knew what he meant. He desired to be left alone, to deal with Del Rey after the sure manner of the Yaquis. And yet, why not? Hooker gazed thoughtfully at the oncoming rurales and walked swiftly back to Gracia.

"This Indian is a friend of mine," he said, "and I can trust him. He says it will be better for us to ride on—and he will take care of the rurales."

"Take care!" questioned Gracia, turning pale at a peculiar matter-of-fact tone in his voice.

"Sure," said Hooker; "he says there are revoltosos ahead. It will be better for you, he says, to ride on."

"Madre de Dios!" breathed Gracia, clutching at her saddle; and then she nodded her head weakly.

"You better get down for a minute," suggested Hooker, helping her quickly to the ground. "Here, drink some water—you're kinder faint. I'll be right back—jest want to say good-by."

He strode over to where Amigo had posted himself behind a rock and laid a hand on his arm.

"Adios, Amigo!" he said, but the Yaqui only glanced at him strangely.

"Anything in my camp, you're welcome to it," added Hooker, but Amigo did not respond. His black eyes, far-seeing as a hawk's, were fixed intently before him, where Del Rey came galloping in the lead.

"You go now!" he said, speaking with an effort, and Hooker understood. There was no love, no hate left in that mighty carcass—he was all warrior, all Yaqui, and he wanted Del Rey to himself.

"We'll be going," Hooker said to Gracia, returning swiftly, and his subdued tones made her start. She felt, as one feels at a funeral, the hovering wings of death, yet she vaulted into her saddle and left her thoughts unsaid.

They rode on down the valley, spurring yet holding back, and then with a roar that made them jump the heavy Mauser spoke out—one shot! And no more. There was a hush, a long wait, and Amigo rose slowly from behind his rock.

"God!" exclaimed Hooker, as he caught the pose, and his voice sounded a requiem for Manuel del Rey.

Then, as Gracia crossed herself and fell to sobbing, he leaned forward in his saddle and they galloped away.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Though men may make a jest of it in books, it is a solemn thing to kill a man, even to be near when one is killed. If Gracia had slain Del Rey herself in a passion her hot blood might have buoyed her up, but now her whole nature was convulsed with the horror of it and she wilted like a flower.

An hour before she had burned with hatred of him, she had wished him dead and sought the man who would kill him. Now that his life had been snipped off between two heart-beats she remembered him with pity and muttered a prayer for his soul. For Hooker, for De Lancey she had no thought, but only for the dashing young captain who had followed her to his death.

Of this Bud had no knowledge. He realized only that she was growing weaker, and that he must call a halt, and at last, when the walls of their pass had widened and they rode out into the open plain, he turned aside from the trail and drew rein by a clump of mesquit.

"Here, let me take you," he said, as she swayed uncertainly in the saddle. She slid down into his arms and he laid her gently in the shade.

"Poor girl," he muttered, "it's been too much for you. I'll get some water, and pretty soon you can eat."

He unslung the canteen from his saddle-flap, gave her a drink, and left her to herself, glancing swiftly along the horizon as he tied out their mounts to graze. But for her faintness he would have pushed on farther, for he had seen men off to the east; but hunger and excitement had told upon her even more than the day-and-night ride.

For a woman, and sitting a side-saddle, she had done better than he had hoped; and yet—well, it was a long way to the border and he doubted if she could make it. She lay still in the shade of the mesquit, just as he had placed her, and when he brought the sack of food she did not raise her head.

"Better eat something," he suggested, spreading out some bread and dried beef. "Here's some oranges I got from Don Juan—I'll just put them over here for you."

Gracia shuddered, sighing wearily. Then, as if his words had hurt her, she covered her face and wept.

"What did you tell that man?" she asked at last.

"W'y—what man?" inquired Hooker, astonished. "Ain't you going to eat?"

"No!" she cried, gazing out at him through her tears, "not until I know what you said. Did you tell that Indian to—to kill him?"

She broke down suddenly in a fit of sobbing, and Hooker wiped his brow.

"W'y, no!" he protested. "Sure not! What made you think that?"

"Why—you rode over and spoke to him—and he looked at me—and then—he—killed him!"

She gave way to a paroxysm of grief at this, and Bud looked around him, wondering. That she was weak and hungry he knew, but what was this she was saying?

"I reckon I don't understand what you're driving at," he said at last. "Wish you'd eat something—you'll feel better."

"No, I won't eat!" she declared, sitting up and frowning. "Mr. Hooker," she went on very miserably, "what did you mean this morning when you—laughed! I said I hated poor Manuel—and you said—well, what you did—and you laughed! Did you think—oh, you couldn't have—that I really wanted him killed?"

"W'y, sure not!" cried Hooker heartily. "I knowed you was fooling! Didn't I laugh at you? Say, what kind of a feller do you think I am, anyway? D'ye think I'd get an Indian to do my killing?"

"Oh, then didn't you?" she cried, suddenly brightening up. "You know, you talk so rough sometimes—and I never do know what you mean! You said you guessed you'd have to kill him for me, you know, and—oh, it was too awful! I must be getting foolish, I'm so tired out, but—what did you tell that Indian?"

Bud glanced at her sharply for a moment and then decided to humor her. Perhaps, if he could get her quieted, she would stop talking and begin to eat.

"He asked me who was after us," he said, "and I told him it was Del Rey."

"Yes, and what did he say then?"

"He didn't say nothing—jest lined out for the pass."

"And didn't you say you wanted—him—killed?"

"No!" burst out Bud, half angrily. "Haven't I told you once? I did not! That Indian had reasons of his own, believe me—he's got a scar along his ribs where Del Rey shot him with a six-shooter! And, furthermore," he added, as her face clouded at this explanation of the mystery, "you'd better try to take me at my word for the rest of this trip! Looks to me like you've been associating with those Mexicans too much!"

"Why, what do you mean?" she demanded curtly.

"I mean this," answered Hooker, "being as we're on the subject again. Ever since I've knowed you you've been talking about brave men and all that; and more'n once you've hinted that I wasn't brave because I wouldn't fight.

"I'd just like to tell you, to put your mind at rest, that my father was a sergeant in the Texas rangers and no hundred Mexicans was ever able to make him crawl. He served for ten years on the Texas border and never turned his back to no man—let alone a Mex. I was brought up by him to be peaceable and quiet, but don't you never think, because I run away from Manuel del Rey, that I was afraid to face him."

He paused and regarded her intently, and her eyes fell before his.

"You must excuse me," she said, looking wistfully away, "I did not—I did not understand. And so the poor Yaqui was only avenging an injury?" she went on, reaching out one slender hand toward the food. "Ah, I can understand it now—he looked so savage and fierce. But"—she paused again, sat back by a sudden thought—"didn't you know he would kill him?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered Hooker quietly, "I did."

"Then—then why didn't you—"

"That was between them two," he replied doggedly. "Del Rey shot him once when he was wounded and left him for dead. He must have killed some of his people, too; his wife maybe, for all I know. He never would talk about it, but he come back to get his revenge. I don't shoot no man from cover myself, but that ain't it—it was between them two."

"And you?" she suggested. "If you had fought Del Rey?"

"I would have met him in the open," said Hooker.

"And yet—"

"I didn't want to," he ended bluntly. "Didn't want to fight him and didn't want to kill him. Had no call to. And then—well, there was you."

"Ah!" she breathed, and a flush mounted her pale cheeks. She smiled as she reached out once more for the food and Hooker resolved to do his best at gallantry, it seemed to make her so happy.

"So you were thinking of me," she challenged sweetly, "all the while? I thought perhaps I was a nuisance and in the way. I thought perhaps you did not like me because—well, because I'm a Mex, as you say."

"No, ma'am," denied Hooker gazing upon her admiringly. "Nothing like that! When I say Mex I mean these low, polado Mexicans—Don Juan tells me you're pure Spanish."

"With perhaps a little Yaqui," she suggested shyly.

"Well, mebbe he did say that, too," confessed Bud. "But it's jest as good as Spanish—they say all the big men in Sonora have got some Yaqui blood—Morral, that was vice-president; the Torres brothers, governors—"

"And Aragon!" she added playfully, but at a look in his eyes she stopped. Bud could not look pleasant and think of Aragon.

"Ah, yes," she rattled on. "I know. You like the Yaquis better than the Spanish—I saw you shaking hands with that Indian. And what was it you called him—Amigo?"

"That's right," smiled Hooker; "him and me have been friends for months now out at the mine. I'd do anything for that feller."

"Oh, now you make me jealous," she pouted. "If I were only a Yaqui—and big and black—"

"Never mind," defended Bud. "He was a true friend, all right, and true friends, believe me, are scarce."

There was a shade of bitterness in his voice that did not escape her, and she was careful not to allude to Phil. His name, like the name of her father, always drove this shy man to silence, and she wanted to make him talk.

"Then you ought to be friends with me," she chided, after a silence. "I have always wanted to be your friend—why will you never allow it? No, but really. Haven't I always shown it? I remember now the first time that I saw you—I was looking through my hole among the passion-flowers and you saw me with your keen eyes. Phil did not—but he was there. And you just looked at me once—and looked away. Why did you never respond when I came there to look for you? You would just ride by and look at me once, and even Phil never knew."

"No," agreed Bud, smiling quietly. "He was crazy to see you, but he rode right by, looking at the windows and such."

THE ARCADE.

MINSTREL GIRLS BIG HIT.

The American Minstrel Maids which opened at the Arcade Theatre last night for a three night stay in the city is a very unusual attraction. The show opens with a novelty minstrel first part, ladies wearing beautiful gowns and all having good voices. The two end girls were a scream of laughter. They weigh about 300 pounds each and the attention of the audience is directed to them entirely.

The Burke Sisters, two beautiful young ladies, introduce a harmony singing and piano act, showing well trained voices and introducing character work in a novel manner.

Cora Merrel does a clever monologue and plays from rag time to grand opera on the saxaphone.

Alice LaMount, the dancing violinist is a corker, and her act is a big hit.

At the appearance of Santos and Hayes, it was the time to laugh and how everyone in the audience roared with laughter until their sides ached. The little one weighs about 95 pounds and has a beautiful voice. The other member weighs 330 and is about the funniest creature that has ever been seen in the theatre. Taking the show in a whole, it is one of the best that has appeared at this theatre.

THE EXPRESS IS IN THIS TOWN

AND IN TO STAY

FOR seventy-five years—three quarters of a century—the express has been the right-hand of the shippers of commercial America. The Express came to Connellsville in 1874 and it came to stay. For 40 years it has been the right-hand of commercial Connellsville.

It is here to stay. The other day when reports went out that the express companies might retire from business, a protest went up. From whom this protest—the express companies? No! The merchants of the country—shippers everywhere—petitioned Congress that no action be taken that might have the effect of forcing the express companies to retire. Commercial organizations all over the land have joined in this appeal to Washington.

For seventy-five years in the past and for a good many more years in the future Express Service will mean

DAWSON PA.

WRIGHT-METZLER COMPANY. CONNELLSVILLE.

Soon we will miss these chaps and their cheery greetings. some only for a period of months, when they will return again to schooling of a higher order; others who are winding up their last year will scatter and enliven new haunts. To the one—a pleasant vacation and perfect health to carry you through the next term of knowledge-gathering! To the other—may you find real life no harder to master than the Graduation speech you will deliver one night this week.

The custom of gift-giving at Graduation time has expanded, in Connellsville, to include non-graduates as well. Many parents, and others, find joy in the giving of Rewards of Merit to boys and girls at the end of each school term. A fine plan, indeed! It shows that elders, years away from the school atmosphere, have not forgotten the long, hard pull of bringing ability up to the mark. A little token is keenly appreciated, and an incentive to real effort. For both, we have broad assortments of worth-while things suited for boys of school age. We're leaving the girls out of this gift list, because a plea for them has already been made
